The journey to a pitch-perfect finish

By ANURAG CHAKRABARTY
New Delhi, August

While commentators insist that, in this case, "the final is the final", the Indian women's hockey team's "final" is a long one. In the quarter-finals of the Olympics is a good time to pause and reflect on all that has happened. It is the most celebratory time for the team — what with the honour of having a full-time member of the national team — and the fact that the team has secured a place in the final. It is a time to reflect on the journey that has led to this point. The team's response to the challenges that have been thrown at them has been nothing short of remarkable. The team's performance in the quarter-finals was a testament to their skill and determination. The team's performance in the semi-finals was a testament to their resilience and ability to overcome adversity. The team's performance in the final was a testament to their skill and determination.

Narrow miss for discus thrower

By ANURAG CHAKRABARTY
New Delhi, August

Discus thrower Anshu Kumar had a narrow miss for a medal in the final of the event at the Tokyo 2020 Olympics. Kumar, who was without her personal coach, looked nervous and short of confidence as she faced international opposition.

The 24-year-old Kumar, who qualified for the final as second best, was never in the running for a medal. She had a third round throw of 43.20m to end at sixth and equal 20th.

Through the competition, Kumar, who was without her personal coach, looked nervous and short of confidence as she faced international opposition.
